Bail Bondsman

Finding a bail bondsman can be difficult and you often have to do it in a hurry so you or your loved one can be released from incarceration. You can't necessarily choose the first bondsman you find or call but must take steps to make sure that your bail agent is operating an ethical business. To find the best bail business quickly so you can get back to life, use this guide to understand what to look for in a great bail agent. Consider these 4 questions:

1. What is Your Bail Agent's Availability?

Always look for a bail bondsman whose business has someone available to help you 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. You can't predict when you may need to access their services or when you may need additional support later. Good bail agents will always be available to take your call and help you through your tough situation. Additionally, your bail agent should be able to work through your situation quickly rather than miring you in an unending process.

2. Is Your Bail Agent Licensed?

Some bondsmen run shady businesses and employ bail agents who aren't licensed to perform their job duties. Avoid getting burned in this situation by always working with a bail bonds agency where all bondsmen are appropriately trained and licensed.

3. How Has Your Bail Agent Been Rated?

The experience other people have had with your bail agent can go a long way toward helping you understand whether they are ethical to work with. You'll need to check reviews on several different websites as well as through the Better Business Bureau to build a few pictures. Remember that some overly positive reviews may be plants while some overly negative feedback may be from situations that are exaggerated or taken out of context. Instead, look at all the reviews and see what the average experience is that others have had.

Remember to check with the Better Business Bureau to see if any complaints have been lodged against your bail agency. If so, it's also important to evaluate how those complaints have been handled. Any business can run into issues – it's often more important to consider how issues have been addressed rather than that the issue arose in the first place.

4. Is the Bail Agent Open About Fees and Costs?

You should understand up front exactly what it will cost you financially to work with a bail bond company. Ensure that your bail agent is open and honest about all fees and costs that will be charged and what to expect from the future. If some of the costs seem overly high or way too low, take your investigation one step further and ask probing questions to understand the basis for those fees. You'll want to pay the least amount that's practical, but fees that are too low now can be indicative of getting hit with unexpected costs later.
